A course of readings in Science, Travel, Biography, Education, Manners, etc., for young people (and for older people, too); for busy people who have only an occasional five or ten-minute opportunity to pick up "something to read;" for field hands, factory or shop girls and boys, clerks, errand-boys, etc., who want to live for something besides food and fun; for tired housekeepers and for servant-girls, who would like to furnish their brains and prepare themselves to talk intelligently to children, and put into their dull and dreary lives bright thoughts and noble aims.

These little books or "tractlets"—one hundred in all—are short, entertaining, instructive, and cheap.

The "Spare-Minute Courses" will give young people a start in a right path, and who can tell to what heights of attainment and power they may come after a while?

Let proprietors and foremen of factories, pastors of churches, superintendents, public-school teachers, and others who have charge of young folks, help us to introduce this new course of reading.

On the receipt of testimony that one has read this course, a certificate to that effect will be forwarded, the applicant inclosing four cents in postage-stamps to the Office of the C. L. S. C., Plainfield, N. J.

This is not the C. L. S. C. Course of reading, but it is one step up and toward that noble society.

Chautauqua Spare-Minute Course, No. 1.

1. READINGS IN SCIENCE.—No. 47. The Ocean; No. 16. The Rain; No. 84. Our Earth; No. 7. The Sun; No. 15. The Moon; No. 25. The Stars.

4. READINGS IN GENERAL SUBJECTS.—No. 69. Reading and Readers; No. 49. Keep Good Company; No. 54.

No. 1, or No. 2, or No. 3, or No. 4," whichever you wish. Then sign your name and post-office address, and send the order and dollar to Phillips & Hunt, New York, or Cranston & Stowe, Cincinnati, Ohio, and Chicago, Ill.

Having received the books, go to work and read. Read when you have time. Make time whether it comes or not. Read whether the books are interesting or not. Read because you ought to read. Read each tractlet over at least twice — the oftener the better. Try to recall what you read. Talk about the subject of your reading to some friend or companion. Tell what you can remember. Ask questions. Write out your ideas on the several subjects.

Begin and continue. "Never be discouraged."

Every page you read with a firm will and a desire to know gives you strength and breadth and worth. It increases your own self-respect. It makes you more worthy of the respect of others.
